

Collects and Biographies for

Saints' Days & Festivals

of the Scottish Episcopal Calendar

August

Using this booklet

This booklet contains a short biography, and appropriate collects, for all saints and dated festivals within the Scottish Calendar published in 1996. It does not provide Post-Communion Prayers.

You may use the short biography as a preface to the Collect of the Day to introduce the life of the saint to the congregation, or as a short homily.

This booklet is arranged with one saint (or festival) to a page, giving details of the saint's day, its category (1-6) and the liturgical colour. Collects for use at a 1970 Scottish Liturgy (or 1929) Eucharist are given on the left, those for 1982 Scottish Liturgy on the right.

Notes

- Where feasts in Category 4 fall on a Sunday (other than a Sunday in Categories 1 and 2), they may, if local circumstances require, be kept on that day.
- When days in Category 6 coincide with a day of higher category, they should be omitted that year.

Oswald of Northumbria, Martyr (642) [6] Red

Oswald was King of Northumbria, who, while in exile had become a Christian at Iona. When he recovered part of his kingdom in AD 633, he immediately obtained missionaries from Iona to evangelize his people – they were led by Saint Aidan, whose friendship with Oswald resulted in a beautiful collaboration, and the establishment of a notable Christian kingdom. His reign, however, lasted only eight years, and he was slain in battle against the pagan Mercian king, Penda, at Oswestry in 642.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

Hear us,
Almighty and everlasting God,
As we keep festival this day in honour of the victorious death of thy servant Oswald beneath the shadow of thy holy Cross: Enlarge our hearts
with like love towards thee, and grant us the courage that can triumph over every foe; Through Jesus Christ our Lord.

(F)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

Lord God almighty,
You so kindled the faith of Oswald with your Spirit that he set up the sign of the passion in his kingdom and turned his people to your light:
grant that we,
being fired with the same Spirit, may ever be found faithful servants of the gospel;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

THE TRANSFIGURATION OF THE LORD [2] White

The story of the Transfiguration of Jesus on the mount is told in the gospels of Matthew, Mark and Luke, and Peter refers to it in his Second Epistle. Each time, it is made clear that God's salvation is for all and Christ is the one who brings that salvation. The testimony of the law and the prophets to Jesus are given by the presence of Moses and Elijah, and the event also pre-figures the resurrection, giving a foretaste of the life of glory.

(Exciting Holiness (2003), p.319)

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O Almighty and Everlasting God, whose blessed Son revealed himself to his chosen Apostles when he was transfigured on the holy Mount, and amidst the excellent glory spake with Moses and Elijah of his decease which he should accomplish at Jerusalem: Grant to us thy servants that, beholding the brightness of thy countenance, we may be strengthened to bear the cross; through the same Jesus Christ our Lord.

(SPB)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

Father in heaven,
whose Son Jesus Christ was wonderfully transfigured before chosen witnesses upon the holy mountain, and spoke of the exodus he would accomplish at Jerusalem: give us strength so to hear his voice and bear our cross that in the world to come we may see him as he is;
who is alive and reigns with you, in the unity of the Holy Spirit, one God, now and for ever.

Dominic, Priest and Friar (1221) [6] White

Born at Calaruega in Spain about 1170, Dominic played a major part in seeking to win the heretical Albigenses back to orthodoxy by preaching and discussion rather than by armed force. He established at Toulouse a group of preachers, bound by monastic vows but free to undertake a ministry of teaching and preaching anywhere, as need arose. This order was recognized in Rome in 1216.

Dominic was a man of remarkable attractiveness of character, breadth of vision and compassion; he saw the need to use all the resources of human learning in the service of Christ, and the order he founded was a formative factor in the religious and intellectual life of Europe in the later Middle Ages. He died at Bologna in 1221.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O God,
who hast enlightened thy Church by the life and teaching of thy servant Dominic:
enrich it evermore, we beseech thee, with thy heavenly grace, and raise up faithful teachers who by their life and doctrine may set forth to all people the truth of thy salvation;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

(SPB – adapted)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

Righteous God,
as your servant Dominic, through your grace,
grew in the knowledge of your truth and in zeal to proclaim your gospel, so help us to follow his example by loving your word and longing to share it with others;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

John Mason Neale, Priest (1886) [6] White

Educated at Sherborne and Cambridge, and ordained in 1842, he was Warden of Sackville College, East Grinstead, from 1846 until his death in 1866. There he founded the Sisterhood of Saint Margaret, especially for the education of girls and the care of the sick.

He actively supported the foundation of Saint Ninian's Cathedral, Perth, the College on Cumbrae, and other Church work in Scotland inspired by the ideals of the Oxford Movement.

During most of his time in East Grinstead Neale was under inhibition by the Bishop of Chichester for his ritualistic practices. He was a man of great gifts, who made a major contribution to English hymnody, especially through his translations from Latin and Greek hymns. His preaching and devotional writings spread the influence of his piety widely.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O God, who by thy Holy Spirit dost give to some
the word of wisdom,
to others the word of knowledge,
and to others the word of faith:
we praise thy Name for the gifts of grace manifested in thy servant
John Mason Neale,
and we pray that thy Church may never be destitute of such gifts;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.
(ECUSA)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

O God, by your Holy Spirit you give to some
the word of wisdom,
to others the word of knowledge,
and to others the word of faith:
we praise your Name
for the gifts of grace manifested in your servant
John Mason Neale,
and we pray that your Church
may never be destitute of such gifts;

Lawrence, Deacon and Martyr (258) [6] Red

Lawrence was one of the seven deacons of the Church in Rome when the Emperor Valerian made his attack on the Christian clergy in AD 258. The Bishop, Sixtus II, was martyred on 6 August, and his chief deacon four days later.

According to tradition, when the city officials ordered him to hand over the Church's treasures, Lawrence assembled for them the poor, the sick and the handicapped, and is reputed to have said, "These are the treasures of the Church". A roasting over a slow fire produced from him no more; his torturers gained nothing, but he gained his martyr's crown.

He died on this day in the year 258.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O God, who gavest grace to thy servant Lawrence to be a wise guardian of the treasures of the Church, a faithful attendant upon his bishop, and a bold witness in his martyrdom to the Christian faith: stir us by his example to the wholehearted devotion, and by thy refining fire prepare us for the judgement that is to come;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

(F)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

God our sustainer, your grace enabled your servant Lawrence to be a wise steward of the treasures of your Church and a loving servant of your people:
fire us with his example to love as he loved, and to walk in the way
that leads to eternal life;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Clare of Assisi, Religious (1253) [6] White

Born at Assisi of a noble family, Clare came under the influence of Saint Francis, left home secretly, and was placed under the care of the Benedictine nuns at Bastia. She refused all inducements to bring her home, and Francis established her with a small community committed to poverty in the church of San Damiano in Assisi, where they lived entirely on alms. The Poor Clares' mode of life was harder than that of any other nuns at the time, and Clare was in the front rank of mediaeval contemplatives. She guided her community with discretion and compassion for 40 years, and died in 1253.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O Lord our God, who in thy mercy didst guide thy blessed servant Clare to the love of poverty:
guide us by thy Holy Spirit that, like her, we may follow Christ in poverty of spirit, and come to the joyful vision of the fullness of his glory in heaven;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

(R – adapted)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

God of peace, in the holiness of blessed Clare you gave us a clear light to shine in the darkness of this world:
give us grace so to follow in her footsteps
that we may, at the last, rejoice with her
in your eternal glory;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Blane, Missionary (c.590) [6] White

Blane received his education at Bangor, County Down under Saint Comgall, and came to the Island of Bute to work with his uncle, Catan, the centre of whose missionary operations was a settlement at Kingarth on Kilchattan Bay. There are many indications of the work of these two missionaries in Argyll, and Blane moved eastwards to Strathearn, where the mediaeval Dunblane Cathedral stands on the site of one of his foundations. The place and date of his death are uncertain, although AD 590 is the generally accepted date.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

Almighty and everlasting God, whose blessed servant Blane carried the good news of thy beloved Son to the people of this land: grant that we who remember his service with thanksgiving may know the hope of the gospel in our hearts and manifest its light in all our ways;
through the same thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

brought the good news of your Son to the people of our land:
grant that we
who commemorate his service may know the hope of the gospel in our hearts and manifest its light in all our ways;

Jeremy Taylor, Bishop (1667) [6] White

A native of Cambridge, Jeremy Taylor was nominated to a Fellowship at All Souls, Oxford, by Archbishop Laud, and shortly afterwards became chaplain to Charles I.

He became Rector of Uppingham, a charge he left to become a chaplain in the Royalist army. After some time in prison, he retired to Wales as Chaplain to a noble family in 1645, where he wrote some of his most important devotional works, including “The Rule of Exercise of Holy Living” and “The Rule and Exercise of Holy Dying”, characteristic expressions of Anglican piety. Another major work was his “Liberty of Prophesying”, which did much to encourage the development of religious toleration in an age of bitter controversy.

In 1660 he was appointed Bishop of Down and Connor, where he was much troubled by the Presbyterians, whom he treated with considerable harshness, as also the Roman Catholics. There he wrote a major work on spiritual guidance. He died in 1667.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O God, whose days are without end,
and whose mercies
cannot be numbered:
make us, we beseech thee, like thy servant Jeremy Taylor, deeply sensible of the shortness and uncertainty of human life;
and let thy Holy Spirit lead us in holiness and righteousness
all our days;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.
(ECUSA – LFF, from J. Taylor)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

O God, whose days are without end,
and whose mercies
cannot be numbered:
make us, like your servant Jeremy Taylor,
deeply aware of the shortness
and uncertainty of human life;
and let your Holy Spirit lead us in holiness and righteousness
all our days;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Maximilian Kolbe, Priest and Martyr (1941) [6] Red

Born in 1894 near Lodz in Poland, Maximilian Kolbe became a Franciscan, and with 6 companions in 1918 founded the Militia Immaculatae, pledged to combat evil in the world by conquering people's hearts. He taught in the Franciscan seminary in Krakow, and founded what became the largest friary in the world.

From the outset of the Nazi occupation the friars aided refugees. Fr. Kolbe was arrested in February 1941, and transferred to Auschwitz, where a rule was enforced that for every prisoner who escaped ten others would be buried alive in underground, airless concrete bunkers. After one escape the prisoners were paraded for the victims to be selected, and one man, on being pointed to, begged to be spared for the sake of his family. Fr. Kolbe stepped forward and volunteered to take his place, and he and the nine other victims were locked in their death cell, where he comforted and strengthened his fellow-sufferers. It was the culmination of a life-long devotion to the Passion.

After a fortnight, Kolbe and 3 others were still alive, and a lethal injection was administered to them as the cell was required for other prisoners.

At his canonization in 1982 Pope John Paul II said "he defended as a priest in that place of death the right of an innocent man to live".

1970 Scottish Liturgy

Heavenly Father, who in thy Son Jesus Christ has taught us that there is no greater love than that a man should lay down his life for his friend: we bless thee for thy servant Maximilian Kolbe, in whom that same love was radiant amid the darkness of great evil; and we pray that we too may be strengthened to bear the cross in times of adversity, and to give ourselves for the sake of him who gave himself upon the cross for us, even thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

1982 Scottish Liturgy

God our Father, your Son Jesus Christ has taught us that that there is no greater love than that a man should lay down his life for his friend: we praise your for your servant Maximilian Kolbe, in whom that same love shone out amid the darkness of great evil; and we pray that we too may be strengthened to bear the cross in times of adversity, and to give ourselves for the sake of him who gave himself upon the cross for us, even your Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

Mary the Virgin [4] White

Mary was a young Jewish girl living in Nazareth when a messenger from the Lord announced that she was to be the bearer of the Son of God to the world. Her response “Let it be to me according to your word” revealed her natural sense of obedience to God and her reverence for his word, showing her worthy to be the bearer of the Word made flesh. This day is now celebrated as the major feast of the Blessed Virgin Mary throughout most of Christendom.

(Exciting Holiness (2003), p.342)

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O God, who as on this day didst take to thyself
the Blessed Virgin Mary,
the Mother of thy Son:
grant that we,
who have been redeemed
by his blood, may share with her
the glory of thy eternal kingdom; through the same
Jesus Christ our Lord, who liveth and reigneth with thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God,
world without end.

(SPB – supplement)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

Almighty God,
who looked upon the lowliness of Mary and chose her to be the mother of your only Son:
grant that we
who are redeemed by his blood may share with her in the glory of your eternal kingdom;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Bernard of Clairvaux, Abbot and Teacher of the Faith (1153) [6] *White

Born at Fontaines, near Dijon, in 1090, son of a Burgundian nobleman, Bernard joined the new monastery at Cîteaux in 1113, and three years later was sent to establish a new monastery at Clairvaux. As abbot he exercised a European influence — no less that 68 daughter-houses were established. He was sent to preach the Second Crusade, and the success of his preaching contrasted sadly with the failure of the crusade itself. He wrote extensively on theological, scriptural and devotional subjects, his object being always “to reach people’s hearts”. He died on this day in 1153.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O God, by whose grace the blessed Abbot Bernard, enkindled with the fire of thy love, became a burning and a shining light in thy Church:

Grant that we may be inflamed with the same spirit of discipline and love, and ever walk before thee as children of light;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

(F)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

Lord God,
you made Saint Bernard burn with zeal for your house, and gave him grace to enkindle and enlighten others in your Church:
grant that we, in our generation, may be inflamed by the same spirit, and always live
as children of the light;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

24 AUGUST

Bartholomew, Apostle [4] Red

Bartholomew is known to us only as a name among the lists of the apostles in the Gospels. He is often identified with Philip's friend, Nathanael, whom Jesus described as "an Israelite without guile", and this is quite possible since Bartholomew itself is a patronymic, (that is "a name derived from the name of a father or ancestor") while Nathanael is a personal name.

There is a tradition that Bartholomew travelled to India, and the historian Eusebius records that Pantaenus of Alexandria, on a visit to India towards the end of the 2nd Century, found there a copy of the Gospel according to Matthew in Hebrew, which, it was claimed, had been left there by the apostle Bartholomew. He is said to have been flayed alive in Armenia.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O Almighty and Everlasting God, who didst give to thine Apostle Bartholomew grace truly to believe and to preach thy word: Grant, we beseech thee, unto thy Church,
to love that word which he believed,
and both to preach
and receive the same;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

(SPB)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

Almighty and everlasting God, who gave to your apostle Bartholomew grace truly to believe and to preach your word: grant that your Church may love that word which he believed and may faithfully preach and receive the same;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

25 AUGUST

Ebba of Coldingham, Abbess (683) [6] White

Ebba was the sister of the Northumbrian prince Oswald, and shared his exile on Iona. She refused to marry, received the veil from Saint Finan of Lindisfarne, and was granted land for a convent, but withdrew to establish a mixed community on the Northumbrian coast near Coldingham. Such communities were not uncommon in the Celtic tradition, but this one developed a name for laxity and luxury, possibly because the other-worldly Ebba, whom Bede calls “a pious woman and handmaid of Christ” was unable to exert the strong leadership such a community demanded.

She died in AD 683, and around the time of her death the monastery was destroyed by lightning.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O God,
who dost enlighten
the hearts of thy faithful people:
grant that after the example of thy servant Ebba we may always seek those things that are above;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.
(SPB – supplement)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

God our Saviour, today we celebrate with joy the memory of your servant Ebba, and we give thanks for her faithfulness and love:
may we, like her, serve you with generous and pure hearts; we ask this in the Name of Jesus Christ the Lord.

Monnica, Mother of Augustine of Hippo (387) [6] White

Born of a Berber Christian family at Thagaste in North Africa about the year AD 331, Monnica was married to a Roman provincial official, for whose conversion she prayed tirelessly, and who became a Christian before his death.

Of her several children, one was Augustine, whose early dissolute life caused her great grief, and she was unceasing in her prayers for his conversion. He later acknowledged the power of her influence over him, weaning him from his vices, watching over his wayward beliefs, until he eventually submitted to God and consecrated his undoubted gifts in the service of the Church.

A wonderful example of a Christian mother, she died at Ostia in 387.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O Lord, who didst strengthen thy servant Monnica to persevere in offering her love and prayers and tears for the conversion of those dearest to her:
deepen our devotion, we beseech thee, and use us in accordance with thy will to bring others, even our own kindred to acknowledge Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord; who with thee and the Holy Spirit liveth and reigneth, one God, for ever and ever.

(ECUSA – LFF, adapted)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

Merciful Father,
comforter of the sorrowful, you accepted Saint Monnica's offerings of tears for the conversion of her son, Augustine, to the faith of Christ:
may their example and their love inspire us to true contrition, that we may turn from our sins and find the wonder of your loving forgiveness;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

28 AUGUST

Augustine of Hippo, Bishop and Teacher of the Faith (430) [6] *White

Born at Thagaste in North Africa in 354, Augustine led an unsettled life as a young man, both in his beliefs and in his conduct. Throughout this period his mother Monnica (Feast Day: 27 August), never ceased her prayers for his conversion, and in 387 he received baptism at Milan from Saint Ambrose. He returned to his own country and led the life of an ascetic in penitence for the excesses of his past life.

Augustine was elected Bishop of Hippo, and served its people in an exemplary fashion for 34 years. His preaching and writings sought to combat the errors of his day and to confirm the orthodox faith. They have had a marked influence on the whole Church ever since. He died in the year 430 as the Vandal invaders were over-running his North African diocese.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O God, who gavest
the blessed Augustine to be a Doctor of thy Church and an exponent of the mysteries of Holy Scripture:
grant that we,
being instructed
by his faithful teaching, may be strengthened to hold fast the catholic faith;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

(F)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

Merciful God, you showed yourself to your servant Augustine as the light of the minds that know you,
the life of the souls that love you and strength of the hearts that serve you:
help us, like him, so to know you that we may truly love you, and so to love you that we may fully serve you, whose service is perfect freedom;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

The Beheading of John the Baptist [4] Red

The main celebration for John the Baptist is on 24 June, the date observing his birth, but John was also the forerunner of Christ in his death, which, as the gospels of Matthew and Mark relate it, following his denunciation of immorality and his call to repentance. On hearing of John's arrest, Christ immediately took up John's call: Repent, for the kingdom of heaven has come near; repent, and believe the good news.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O God, who didst vouchsafe to thy servant John Baptist to be in birth and death the forerunner of thy Son: Grant that as he was slain for truth and righteousness, so we may content for the same unto the end;
for the love of thy Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

(SPB)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

Almighty God,
who called your servant John the Baptist to be the forerunner of your Son in birth and death:
strengthen us by your grace that, as he suffered for the truth, so we may boldly resist corruption and vice and receive with him the unfading crown of glory;
through Jesus Christ our Lord.

31 AUGUST

Aidan of Lindisfarne, Bishop (651) White

Aidan has been called “the brightest star in the galaxy of Northumbrian saints”. When Edwin, the first Christian king of Northumbria, was defeated in battle, his children fled to Iona, and when Oswald regained part of the kingdom he sent to Iona for monks to re-evangelize his lands.

The first leader sent proved unsuitable, and Aidan was sent in his place. His mildness of manner and compassion, combined with an inspiring example of self-discipline and asceticism commended his message to the people and endeared him to the king, over whom he exercised great influence. He obtained the island of Lindisfarne for a monastery, and his own learning and leadership established the pattern that was to make this so important a Celtic settlement.

After Oswald’s death he continued as adviser to his successor. Aidan died on this day in AD 651, in a tent beside one of his mission churches at Bamburgh.

1970 Scottish Liturgy

O God, who of old times sendest thy servant Aidan to preach thy saving Word: grant unto all ministers of thy Word and Sacraments such simplicity of purpose and love for the souls of men, that they may truly follow him, even as he followed Christ;
through the same thy Son, our only Mediator and Redeemer, who now liveth and reigneth
with thee and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end.

(F)

1982 Scottish Liturgy

Loving Father,
Shepherd of your people, you sent your servant Aidan to preach your saving Word to the people of Northumbria: fill all ministers of your Word and Sacraments with the same simplicity of purpose and love for people’s souls, that, like him,
they may give living testimony to the love of Christ and win many to His service; who now lives and reigns with you and the Holy Spirit, one God, for ever and ever.
